

Attendance Policy

Attendance is optional for both practices, and games, all year-round. Therefore, your time commitment is whatever you decide you want to commit throughout the year. You can show up to everything, nothing, or anywhere in between. The only exception I have to the optional attendance policy is you may not miss one of your rostered team games to play with a competing team, nor can you play on another team that might play against a CE team in your same age group (if it's outside of your age group that is allowed). If you want more clarification on this policy there is another FAQ devoted specifically to this.

Practices - you do NOT need to communicate whether you will be in attendance at practices (simply check the schedule and show up if you are able).

Games - you DO need to communicate whether you can make your team's games. I initiate this via email. The Monday prior to the weekend your team is scheduled to play you will receive an email asking you to confirm your son's availability for that weekend - you simply need to reply to that email. You do NOT need to notify me prior to that Monday email with whether you can attend (I won't remember even if you do).
